Madrid, 30 April 2009. Isofoton, a European reference in the Photovoltaic Sector, will be participating again this year through its Italian subsidiary at the annual fair Solarexpo 2009, that will be held on 7th – 9th May in Verona.

At this edition of Solar Export 2009, the company will be exhibiting its new Photovoltaic module, ISF-220, which is more resistant and more efficient. It will also be exhibiting the Photovoltaic module IS-220, which is notably manufactured with high-performance ultrathin cells, under maximum quality standards. The company offers a 5-year guarantee on all its Photovoltaic modules, and a 25-year guarantee on power.

With reference to Solar Technology applications, a photovoltaic boat, 8 metres long, will be exhibited at the booth. It will have ultrathin cells manufactured by Isofoton installed on its deck. The boat is to be entered in two competitions that will be held next July.

Isofoton has been generating energy for almost 30 years, and its modules stand out because of their rigour, reliability and quality, and because they are adapted to clients' and the market's needs.

Isofoton has been present in Italy since 2003 through its subsidiary, which has confirmed itself as a company of reference on the Italian market, one of the most important energy markets.
