ISOFOTON AWARDED SOLAR PRIZE 2008 FOR “LA GENERACIÓN DEL SOL”

- “La Generación del Sol” [“The Sun Generation”] is a Portal on Renewable Energies promoted by Isofoton.
- The website has specific areas for professionals, university students, teachers and the general public.

MADRID, 4 FEBRUARY 2009. - Isofoton has won Solar Prize 2008, awarded by the Spanish section of the European Association for Renewable Energy (EUROSOLAR), in the category "Education and training initiatives in Renewable Energies", for creating the Internet Portal "La Generación del Sol".

The aim of “La Generación del Sol” (www.lageneraciondelsol.com) is to offer a communication channel to respond to all aspects of information and training needs related to clean energies, and Solar Energy in particular. It also encourages portal visitors to take an active part by using the different interactive tools.

Users have free access to a large selection of documents, news, events and courses, and can also participate in dynamic areas such as a job board, opinion forums and an ask-the-expert section where you can air your doubts and debate current issues.

The European Association for Renewable Energy (EUROSOLAR) awarded the Solar Prizes 2008 at a national and European level to towns, municipal enterprises, individuals, architects, engineers, owners of Renewable Energy installations and organizations that carry out relevant activities and services to promote the use of Solar Energy.

Last year Isofoton won Solar Prize 2007 in the category, “Solar Architecture Projects” for its Production and Research Centre in Spain.
